What is Lean Library? Lean Library Access is a browser extension that works with our Kennesaw State University library systems to give you seamless access when working away from the Kennesaw State University campus. Once downloaded, you'll be alerted via a pop-up message if you are looking for something that our KSU Libraries can give you access to, including articles, eBooks, and other subscriptions. If our library can't help, we will also try to direct you to an open access version of what you are looking for if it exists elsewhere.

What's the quickest way to find out if the we own an article?
Select any word(s) on a webpage, then right click and choose Search @ KSU to open a new tab in your Lean-Library-enabled browser.

STAY IN THE LOOP
(LIBRARY ONLINE ORIENTATION PROGRAM)

This fall the library is offering themed library orientations for classes within Business, Science & Math, and the Humanities. These 35-minute orientations are live and broadcast webinar-style into classrooms. To sign your classes up for an orientation just go to our Orientation Calendar and navigate to late August/early September or type in your discipline to access your sessions.

To learn more about the orientations reach out to one of our orientation leaders:

·Assistant Professor Jillian Speck for Business at jspeck4@kennesaw.edu
·Assistant Professor Alyssa Kowis for Science & Math at akowis@kennesaw.edu
·Associate Professor Leslie Drost for Humanities at ldrost@kennesaw.edu
