

Program Information

College:	Norman J. Radow College of Humanities and Social Sciences
Department:	Interdisciplinary Studies – Undergraduate
Program:	African and African Diaspora Studies, Minor

Program Student Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of this degree from KSU, students will be able to:

1. Examine various forms of cultural expression (art, music, literature, film, among others) or assumptions about the global Black experience using interdisciplinary and/or multidisciplinary approaches.
2. Investigate intersecting structures of power and their effects on policy, positionality, and other aspects of life for people of African descent in the Diaspora and Africa.
3. Describe some of the historical and contemporary intellectual currents in Africa, African America, and the African Diaspora.
4. Demonstrate effective communication (verbally or nonverbally) about cultural differences or issues in the global Black experience and the importance of shared understanding.
5. Demonstrate skills and attitudes of intercultural competence, cultural humility, and social responsibility to issues facing Black communities locally and globally based in theoretical, empirical, and interdisciplinary approaches in interpersonal or professional contexts.