

Program Information

College:	Wellstar College of Health and Human Services
Department:	Health Promotion and Physical Education
Program:	Integrated Health Science, BS

Program Student Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of this degree from KSU, students will be able to:

- Synthesize interdisciplinary knowledge from health-related disciplines to identify critical gaps and opportunities within the health science fields.
- Explain the diverse mental and physical health needs, interests, and concerns of individuals and/or groups based on key social determinants of health.
- Develop communication and advocacy skills to address health needs, interests, and concerns of different individuals and/or groups.
- Assess various solutions to respond to health interests and concerns of individuals and/or groups.
- Apply principles, best practices, and standards that govern health professionals and institutions in their work with individuals and/or groups to improve health.
- Develop collaborative and project planning skills that integrate inter professional and interdisciplinary contributions to improve individual and/or group health outcomes through research, inquiry, networking, and problem solving.