Program Student Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of this degree from KSU, students will be able to:

1. Analyze a film, television show, or media artifact according to its narrative content, audiovisual form, genre conventions, and representational strategies.
2. Develop a sense of the cultural, sociohistorical, ideological, commercial, and technological importance of certain moving image texts, media studies discourses, and international film and television movements.
3. Articulate the relationship of certain films, television shows, artists, and national, cultural, and sexual identities to different schools of media theory.
4. Produce analyses, scripts, treatments, and pitch presentations for short and feature-length films, web series, and television shows.
